

Measurement types are divided into broad categories: power units for engines and consumption for vehicle fuel economy

Subjects

Two Subjects are defined for fuel economy in this case, the engine and a vehicle that data will be captured from.

